Dr. Amol Verma, MD, MSc, FRCPC

Amol Verma is a clinician-scientist in General Internal Medicine at St. Michael’s Hospital. He is a health services researcher focusing on studying and improving hospital care for complex and frail patients. Amol is one of the inaugural clinical leads of the Ontario General Medicine Quality Improvement Network through Health Quality Ontario. He also co-founded The Rounds Table, a podcast about new research in adult medicine, which has been downloaded more than 280,000 times in over 130 countries. He completed a Masters in Economic and Social History at the University of Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar and—most importantly—he also completed the CoLearnQI curriculum!
